Introduction

Oregon formally adopted its “Employment First” policy in 2008, and was one of the first states in the country to do so. Under its Employment First policy, Oregon presumes that, with the right training and support, each individual who experiences an intellectual or developmental disability (I/DD) can succeed in an individual integrated job that pays competitive wages and benefits. Recognizing the pivotal role integrated employment plays in the lives of individuals who experience intellectual or developmental disabilities, employment in fully integrated settings is the highest priority over unemployment, segregated employment, facility-based employment, or day habilitation.

The teams who support these individuals in achieving their employment goals include state and county agencies, organizations, schools, professionals, families, individuals, and advocates. Our goal is to help facilitate meaningful interactions in team meetings by removal of a common communication barrier by providing this tool as a reference.

One of the most frequently identified barriers to teaming and collaboration is communication!

Words can get in the way! Teams consistently identify poor communication as a barrier to collaboration and successful support planning among multi-agency teams. Agency words and terms can lead to misunderstanding, limit discussions, and prevent collaboration.

Common terminology is needed!

Agencies, organizations, professionals, and the public often speak different languages. From agency to agency the same words can have different meanings. Or different words can have the same meaning. Awareness, clarity and creating a “common language” is a priority in I/DD support planning where many agencies and individuals cross paths and share responsibilities. While agencies may not be able to adopt a new vocabulary or create a new language, a collaborative team should be aware of the potential for misunderstanding and proactively explain “agency” vocabulary terms or jargon.

Using this Tool

This guide is a reference tool, not to be read like a book, but instead to be consulted to clarify confusing vocabulary.

The terms listed in this document may have similar or diverse meaning based on who is using the term and the agency represented. To provide the team with a broader understanding of what the words may mean, associated vocabulary and information for each agency is provided. This information also helps explain the context in which particular agency personnel might understand the term or the perspective the agency may have when hearing a term.

Preparing for a Meeting

Before distributing this tool to team members, the services coordinator or personal agent may wish to review the information and highlight important terms for an upcoming team discussion. Individual team members should then review the table in an effort to become better aware of their agency's guide terms that may be confusing to others on the team. Each person may wish to scan the left column for terms that are unfamiliar and review the definitions and information before coming together for support planning.

During a Meeting

This tool can be useful during a meeting as well. As words or terms included in this tool surface in discussion, take a moment to assure that each member understands the intent of the words or message by using this tool as a point of reference. Be aware of team members that are scanning the table during a discussion and take time to explain what is being suggested or reviewed.

Team members can also identify additional terms, phrases, or other associated language that would help others to understand the context of the information, service, or plan being discussed. Additional terms found to be confusing or that require explanation when working in cross agency groups can be added to the table for future reference. If you have suggestions on how to make this tool more user-friendly, please email Stephanie.roncal@state.or.us.

	Evaluation is the process by which eligibility is established or reestablished within the school system. Evaluations use assessment data along with professional and personal judgment to establish eligibility for services. The evaluation process includes parents, teachers and specialists.
Benefits Planning	Benefits Planning helps a person understand how his or her Social Security or other benefits could be affected by earning an income from work. A person may be eligible to take advantage of Work Incentives, which are special rules that help people work, earn money and still keep their public benefits. The goal of Benefits Planning is to help individuals make informed decisions about working and the possible outcomes of the decisions they make. Since some of the earning thresholds that affect benefits change each year, it's also a good idea to touch base with a Benefits Planner annually. Oregon has two statewide benefits planning programs provided at no cost to eligible participants. Plan for Work is funded by the Social Security Administration (SSA) and is located at Disability Rights Oregon. The Work Incentives Network is funded by Vocational Rehabilitation and is housed at various Independent Living Centers throughout Oregon. In either program, a Benefit Planner will work one-on-one with a person to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Provide information about how wages will affect each type of benefit</li> <li>• Identify Work Incentives that fit each unique situation</li> <li>• Provide tools and assistance in reporting income and requesting Work Incentives</li> <li>• Help individuals earn more money</li> </ul>

Career Assessment	Career assessments help students understand how a variety of personal attributes (i.e., interests, values, preferences, motivations, aptitudes and skills), impact their potential success and satisfaction with different career options and work environments. These may include interviews, job shadows, classroom activities, work experiences, volunteer experiences, adaptive scales, standardized testing, aptitude tests, structured observations, anecdotal notes and person centered planning. Some career assessments measure key personal characteristics believed to influence a student's potential success and satisfaction with a career. Other career assessments are designed to help students clarify their goals and preferences in order to make informed career decisions.	A Comprehensive Vocational Assessment is administered for participants eligible for employment services from VR or transition services from local educational agencies under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) to provide employment-related information for the development of, or revision of, a participant's employment-related planning document, such as the Individual Plan for Employment (IPE) or Individual Education Program (IEP). Targeted Vocational Assessment (TVA) aimed at providing a work experience informed by client's interest that provides opportunity for them to show work readiness which may result in a hire. Community Based Work Activity (CBWA), a work assessment for an individual with limited experience to determine their abilities, desires, and preferences for work. Career Exploration	Students complete career exploration activities according to individualized Employment Related Transition Services included in the student's IEP. Career exploration may include: job shadows, on and off campus work experiences, volunteer activities, guest speakers, elective classes and other classroom activities that broaden the individual's knowledge base of career options as related to personal interests and strengths. Transition Technical Assistance is the substance of the work of the Statewide Transition Technical Assistance Network (TTAN) and includes development of competencies for teachers, administrators, and other educational service providers.	Career Exploration is a service to assist a participant in selecting an employment goal amongst several options to produce a specific vocational outcome. Vocational Exploration Activities include job shadows, informational interviews, involvement of a participant's personal network, engaging in activities of interest, volunteer positions, and time spent with job developers pursuing these activities. These services may be provided by partner agencies to fully explore the participant's vocational interest, so when they come to VR they may have already experienced many activities and their personal network may be able to provide valuable information about the participant. VR is required to use existing information as much as possible.	Discovery is a service that helps identify and allow an individual to explore job interests, abilities and challenges to best identify the ideal job placement towards gainful employment. It is a comprehensive and person-centered employment planning support service to better inform an individual seeking an individualized job in a competitive integrated employment setting and create a Discovery Profile. It includes a series of work or volunteer related activities to inform the individual and the job developer about the strengths, interests, abilities, skills, experiences, and support needs of the individual, as well as identify the conditions and settings in which the individual will be successful. Discovery is also an opportunity for the individual to begin active pursuit of competitive integrated employment.

Transition Services	Transition services means a coordinated set of activities for a student with a disability that is designed to be within a results-oriented process. It is focused on improving the academic and functional achievement of the student to facilitate the student’s movement from school to post school activities. These may include postsecondary education, vocational education, integrated employment, continuing and adult education, adult services, independent living, or community participation. Transition is a process that helps individuals to define goals that will	The school district should invite a representative from VR or the Commission for the Blind to the IEP at least once in the transition student’s senior year or before if the team feels it would be helpful. The school district, VR, and the CDDP/Brokerage will work together with the student to envision how resources will be used to get and keep a job that matches their interests and skills, either before or after graduation. The school, VR and the CDDP/Brokerage have the responsibility to coordinate the transition planning and provide the individual with information on how this interagency collaboration	The Developmental Disability program does not have services specifically called “transition services”; however, an individual may be eligible to enter a CDDP/Brokerage before leaving school. If that happens, the SC/PA will want to make sure all of the services are coordinated person centered and support the goals of the person to move from school to adulthood, including supports and services needed to meet life skills, community integration, and employment goals. The SC/PA’s attendance at IEP meetings or VR meetings during the transition years can be a helpful
